Her big break came in 2009 when she was fourteen years old. Zendaya played the role of Rocky Blue in Disney Channel's Shake It Up. The show was about two friends working toward their dream of becoming professional dancers. Zendaya and her dad moved to Los Angeles, and she began her career as a TV star!

Zendaya has five half brothers and sisters, and many nieces and nephews. One of her nieces, whose nickname is Zink, is actually a year older than she is! Since most of her siblings are much older, Zendaya spent a lot of time with Zink growing up. They are still close friends.

If she hadn't become an actor, Zendaya would have liked to have been a teacher. One way she honors this passion is by working with the #WeNeedMore initiative to provide access to technology and learning for all children.

Through this program, she brought new laptops to the elementary school her mom taught at for twenty years.

Soon, Zendaya was on movie screens, starring in two of the biggest blockbusters of 2017! From helping to save New York City in Spider-Man: Homecoming to performing amazing circus stunts in The Greatest Showman, Zendaya showed the world what a talented adult actor she was.

In addition to being a performer, Zendaya is a fashion icon. She has modeled for multiple fashion brands, walked the runway at New York and Paris Fashion Weeks, and won many best dressed awards.

Zendaya Maree Stoermer Coleman was born on September 1, 1996, in Oakland, California. Her first name is of African origin. In Shona, a language spoken in Zimbabwe, it means “to give thanks.”

Zendaya grew up in a loving home. Her parents, Claire and Kazembe, were both teachers. They taught Zendaya the importance of education.
