PLANT YOUR OWN DROUGHT-RESISTANT GARDEN WITH THIS CLEVER BETH CHATTO-INSPIRED READY-MADE BORDER

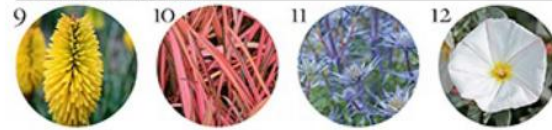

For success in the garden, take Beth Chatto's lead and choose the right plants for the right place. Plants will only look fabulous and stay healthy if they're happy, so grow varieties that suit your particular conditions. This selection is perfect for a gravel garden or border in full sun, with open, free-draining soil.

39 plants for £297.61*

Our ready-made Dry Mediterranean Border can be made into a gravel garden (just finish with a mulch of gravel). Silver-leaved architectural plants and wispy evergreen grasses are contrasted with bold blue agapanthus, yellow marguerites and red-hot pokers to give structure and colour all year round. The design is for a 2.5m x 1.25m plot, but you can buy all of the plants separately, so you can adapt it to suit your space. There are also plenty of other ready-made borders to choose from at waitrose.com for every style of garden and type of soil.

A little after-care

In a gravel garden, you can be relaxed about your plants. Try to recreate a natural and habitat and allow plants to spread, growing as and where they want. Simply replace any that become unattractive and encourage self-seeding, but keep it under control.

Keep your border looking good by pulling out weeds while they're young, and don't let invasive plants spread too freely. If you're adding annuals to the mix, let them self seed but remove the seed heads from inferior plants, or pull them up. And remember to protect your head from the sun while weeding!

M&S is proud to announce, for the fourth year, it will be exhibiting at this year's RHS Chelsea Flower Show. The exhibit is called 'Spirit of Summer: Carnival of Flowers' and will celebrate floral and cultural diversity, showcasing bright and beautiful blooms from around the world. The exhibit will be split into four sections to represent four cultures: Britain, Europe, Africa and South America. Displays will depict vibrant market stalls and street parties, evoking a sense of celebration. At the centre of the garden visitors will be drawn to a spectacular arrangement which fuses flowers from each section, celebrating the coming together of people and cultures. Along with being bright and beautiful, the garden is also designed to help educate, and raise awareness on the importance of flower production for economies around the world.

"This summer we are championing flower varieties from around the world: from British classics, to the exotic blooms of South America. We think we'll have the most vibrant exhibit at Chelsea, with bright and beautiful displays which evoke a real sense of celebration!"

M&S Flower Expert, Simon Richards
