Bini Boogie

no lyrics - just BOOGIE!

The intro to this song is only percussive, but look out! Soon, the guitar is strumming, hands are clapping, the bass comes in and, whew, let the boogie begin! This song will get your toes tapping, head bopping, fingers snapping, hips moving, and your whole body doing the "Bini Boogie." Then, surprise! The music changes, you take a deep breath, and the triple beat waltz takes over. The contrast between the fast-paced boogie beat and the slower, flowing waltz will certainly get your child's attention. You may notice how as the music changes, your child may change how he or she moves, as well. Children are hardwired to respond to music, especially the beat, even more than speech. There are no words to sing in this song, but watch how your child is engaged by this boogie beat!

Oh, Jose. Is that all you can say?
The very next day, Kalino and TJ were coming over to play with Hili and Jose. Jose asked his mommy if they could have candy for lunch and watch TV all day.

Well, Jose's mommy looked at him for a moment.
Suddenly, she opened her arms and gave him a great big bear hug!
Then she stepped back, smiled, and said,
"No way, Jose!"

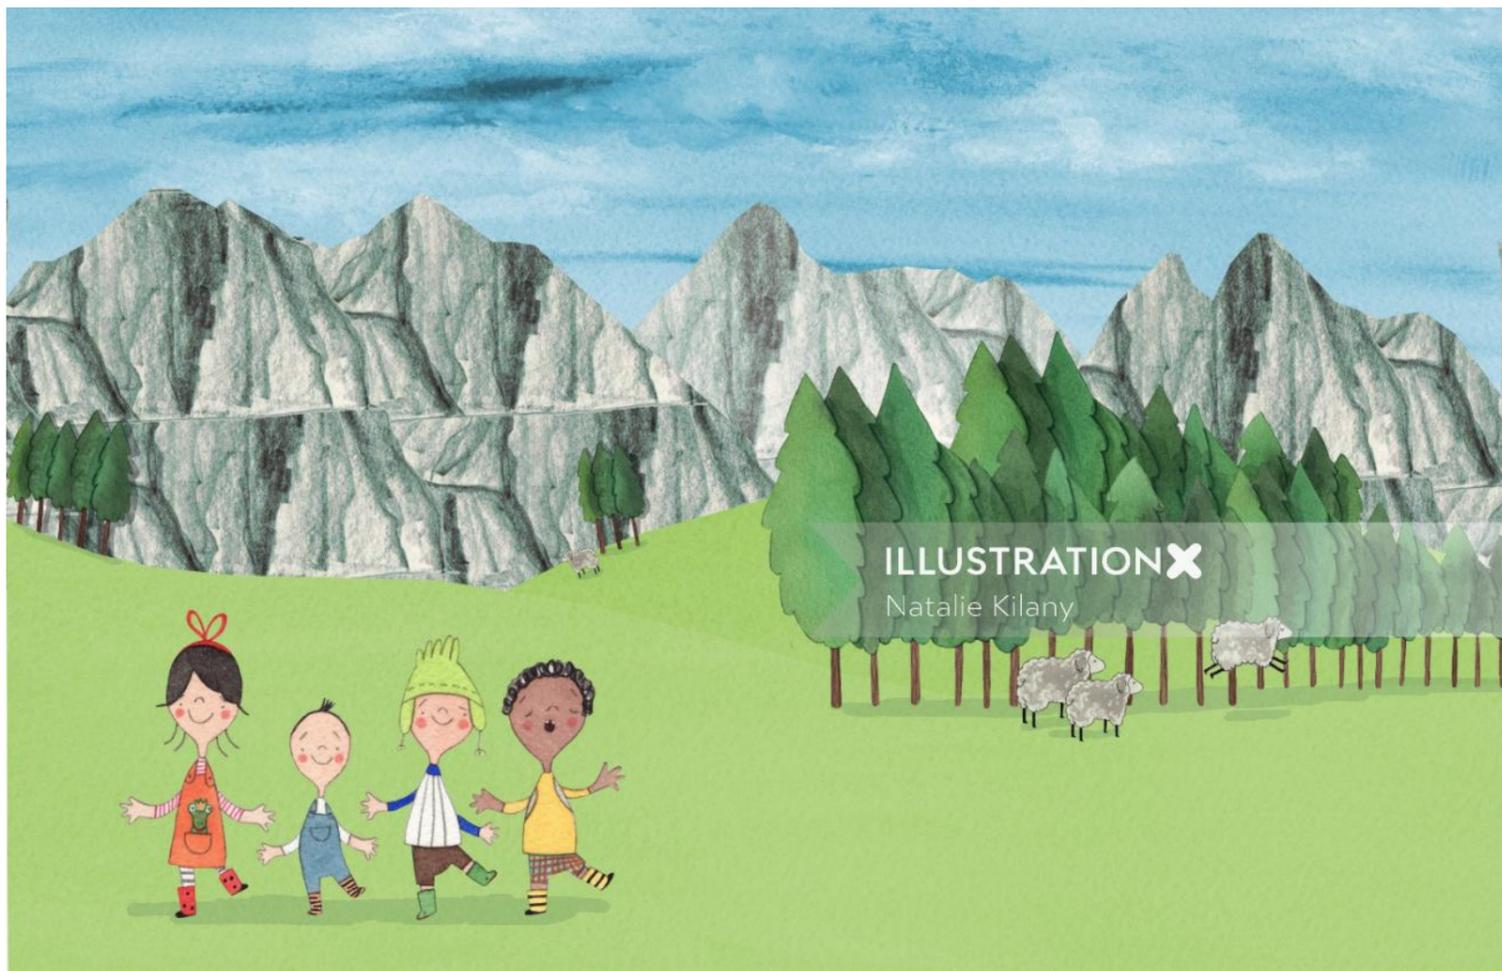

Wait one second! What did mommy say?
"NO WAY JOSE!"

Do you know happened next?

Creepy Crawly

Creepy crawly critters creeping all across the floor
Buzzy wuzzy wuzzers flying up and in my door
Creepy, creepy, crawly, crawly
Buzzy, buzzy, wuzzy, wuzzy
I don't want those creepy crawly critters on my floor
Creepy crawly critters creeping all across the floor
Buzzy wuzzy wuzzers flying up and in my door
Creepy, creepy, crawly, crawly
Buzzy, buzzy, wuzzy, wuzzy
Go on buzzy wuzzers, you just fly right out that door!
Creep, creep, crawl, crawl
Buzz, buzz, buzzy, wuzzy, wuzzy, wuzz
Creep, creep, crawl, crawl
Buzz, buzz, buzzy, wuzz, wuzz
Creepy crawly critters creeping all across the floor
Buzzy wuzzy wuzzers flying up and in my door
Creepy, creepy, crawly, crawly
Buzzy, buzzy, wuzzy, wuzzy
I don't want those creepy crawly critters on my floor
Creep, creep, crawl, crawl
Buzz, buzz, buzzy, wuzzy, wuzzy, wuzz
Creep, creep, crawl, crawl
Buzz, buzz, buzzy, wuzz, wuzz

Creepy and crawly, buzzy and wuzzy, and so interesting to our curious little children! Children are rarely repelled by bugs- they are usually fascinated and delighted. Of course, we grown ups wish those 6 legged beings would buzz off and leave us alone, for the most part! However, this song is playful and silly and makes these captivating critters into a musical game, as the real fun in this song is getting your tongue tied up and twisted with all those "creepy crawlies" and "buzzy wuzzies". Don't worry if you get the words mixed up, as there is no right or wrong in this game! You can also try leaving the words out and just singing the melody on "doo" or "la" or any other simple syllable. It is fun to "creep" your fingers across the floor in front of you or go ahead and inch them right up the arms or legs of your child- taking flight at the end, as they "fly right out the door"! Demonstrating the beat with your fingers is a wonderful, lighthearted, yet, effective way for children to "see" the music and learn musicality.

In the distance stood a mysterious wooden hut. "I don't think bears live in huts," said Molly. The creaky front door opened slowly.

"It's the Park Ranger," said Jack, stepping forward. "We're looking for a bear. Do you know where we can find him?"

"Bears are very secretive," shared the ranger. "Try putting dried leaves on the floor if you want to hear them coming."

Will the leaves help them find the bear?
